CALL FOR PAPERS

SESS Doctoral Symposium – 2023

The Symposium will serve as a platform for early-career economists and social scientists to present their research to peers and receive feedback. It will also provide networking opportunities, enabling participants to appreciate the diversity of ideas, approaches, and methodologies, and foster potential collaborations. This symposium will act as a rehearsal stage, preparing them for presentations at major international economics and social sciences conferences, and playing a pivotal role in their development as professional researchers.
